ABBITT BLISTERS FEDERAL COURT

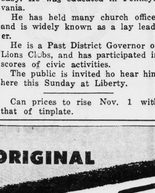
...dug an entire people if the people will remain steadfast and refuse to yield. The court cannot, even in its present ruthless policy, compel the people to open public schools.

If necessary the teachers can be paid by private funds, and I am convinced the people of Virginia will see that the teachers of Warren County and the City of Charlottesville continue to be paid their salaries by private subscriptions.

The Attorney General of North Carolina has recently pointed a finger of scorn at Virginia. Like Judas Iscariot he has betrayed his people and wants to take the heat off himself by pointing at Virginia. North Carolina, because of its lack of leadership, is integrated. Thank God Virginia does not lack leaders during our terrible crisis. I, for one, cannot and will not accept the dictatorial rantings of a power crazed judiciary as the "law of the land."

LAYMEN'S DAY AT LIBERTY BAPTIST



... Guil A. Evans

Guil A. Evans, a prominent Baptist Layman, of Roanoke, Va., will be the guest speaker at 11:00 A. M. Sunday at Liberty Baptist Church, as Laymen's Day is observed, it was announced by pastor James T. Cravens.

Mr. Evans is a native of England, and came to America when a baby. He was educated in Pennsylvania.

He has held many church offices and is widely known as a lay leader.

He is a Past District Governor of Lions Clubs, and has participated in scores of civic activities.

The public is invited to hear him here this Sunday at Liberty.

.... The Rev. Horace E. Dewey

The Rev. Horace E. Dewey, D D, for twenty-five years one of the best known missionaries of the Methodist Church in China, and more recently serving in the Philippine Islands as teacher of New Testament in the Union Theological Seminary, is now in the United States on furlough, and will be the guest speaker at Court St. Methodist Church, Lynchburg, on Thursday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 P. M.

Dr. Dewey will speak on the conditions he has found in the Far East during recent years of service there — just having returned by way of most of the countries referred to in the mission study book of 1956-57, "The Church in Southeast Asia."

DEATHS

Late Fall Cutting of Alfalfa Question Raised by Farmers

Whether or not to cut alfalfa late in the growing season is a perennial question among Virginia farmers.

Agronomists at VPI say the decision should be based on the present need for hay versus the future benefits of a high-yielding, stronger, and longer lived stand. Permitting alfalfa to store food reserves in the fall is especially important when the alfalfa is to be left in the field for three years or more.

Cutting alfalfa later than three to four weeks before the average date of the first killing frost does not allow time for maximum food storage before growth is stopped by cold weather. Cutting at this time will result in weaker stands, reduced yield the following year, and less resistance to winter injury.

Since alfalfa will withstand a fairly severe frost, some growth will usually be made up to two weeks to a month after the average date of the first killing frost in the fall. Greatest injury to the alfalfa results when the alfalfa is cut at about the time of the average date for the first killing frost.

Grazing or removing a part of the past growth after growth stops in the fall will cause less harm than cutting during the critical period.... from three to four weeks before the average date of the first killing frost and the time that growth finally stops. It is desirable to leave some growth or a mulch for protection of the crowns when alfalfa is cut or grazed after growth has stopped.
